Market Commentary

- Annual headline inflation has decelerated to 28.1% in May from 32.3% in the previous month, with food deflation translating into a 0.7% MoM drop in the CPI compared to a 1.1% MoM increase in April.
- The World Bank has announced US$700 million in Development Policy Financing (DPF) for the Government of Egypt to support the country to shift toward more private sector participation, better macroeconomic and fiscal resilience, and a greener growth trajectory
- The IMF and Egypt have reached a staff-level agreement on the third review of the $8bn loan program, which is set to unlock $820mn following the IMF's board approval. The mission stated that Egypt stayed the course to preserve macroeconomic stability through fiscal discipline, tight monetary policy, and a shift to a flexible exchange rate regime.
- Egypt's net foreign assets recorded a surplus of $14.3bn at the end of May, up from a deficit of $3.7bn in April. This is the first recorded surplus since February 2022.
- Net international reserves rose by $5bn in May to $46.1bn, increasing imports coverage to 8 months as per the CBE. This was supported by the second $20bn tranche of Ras El-Hekma project, of which $14bn were fresh inflows.
- Egypt's non-oil private sector activity (PMI) increased to 49.6 in May from 47.4 in April, the highest level in almost three years. Easing inflation and rebounding demand supported the rise. Output and new orders closed most of their gaps to the 50.0 growth threshold.
- The Central Bank of Egypt has maintained interest rates unchanged in its meeting on 23rd May. The decision came as forecasts indicate that inflation has already peaked and is expected to moderate in 2024 as inflationary pressures begin to subside, according to the CBE statement. Overnight deposit, lending, and the rate of the main operation stand at 27.25%, 28.25%, and 27.75%, respectively. The discount rate was also kept unchanged at 27.75%.

Strategy

The fund manager will continue to deploy cash in longer tenors, increasing the duration of the fund to take advantage of higher rates, as well as diversifying investments by participating in corporate issues that offer significant premium over treasuries.
